

Mobility Flash - Update 11 June 2026

Dear colleague,

Please find below an important update on roadworks at and around Brussels Airport*.

1. 🚧 Reopening of the Strabet Roundabout and Vilvoordelaan

From Monday 15 June, the Strabet roundabout, Vilvoordelaan, and the entrance and exit ramps of the A201 will be fully reopened to traffic. The Strabet exit will also be operational again.

Employees travelling towards Ringlaan will no longer need to use the flyover or the turning loop.

The new Strabet turbo roundabout has been designed to improve both traffic flows and safety in this busy area. By directing drivers into the correct lane well in advance, traffic conflicts are minimised and congestion is reduced, helping to maintain a smooth traffic throughput even during peak traffic hours. This not only improves mobility, but also traffic safety and quality of life in the neighbourhood.

While this marks a major milestone, work in the area is not yet fully completed. Over the coming weeks, the access ramp to the cycle tunnel and sections of the cycle infrastructure will be finalised, along with several planned improvements in Toekomststraat and Bosstraat.

The F201 cycle highway is expected to be fully operational by the end of November 2026. The remaining works will be carried out without impacting traffic.

2. North–South flyover to become one-way from mid-June

From 15 June at 10 PM, the North–South flyover will operate as a one-way road in the south-to-north direction, from the TUI roundabout towards the drop-off area.

Road marking works will take place on 16 and 17 June. During these works, the flyover will remain accessible to vehicles of maximum 16 tonnes.

Important: At the end of the flyover, near P30 and the drop-off area, left turns will not be permitted. All traffic must continue either straight ahead or turn right.

The newly redesigned Strabet roundabout, reopening on 15 June, will become the recommended route for all users, including cyclists.

Available routes at the end of the North–South flyover

- From the right-hand lane:
 - Turn right towards A201.
 - Merge right into drop-off lanes 1 and 2.
 - Continue straight ahead towards guard post Tarmac.
- From the left-hand lane:
 - Merge right into drop-off lanes 3 and 4.
 - Turn left into the P30 site via the new access road (please note that this road is not yet displayed on Google Maps or Waze).

3. TUI roundabout conversion to junction

From the end of June, work will begin to convert the TUI roundabout into a junction. The roundabout will remain open and accessible throughout the works, although traffic flows will be adjusted during this period. The new junction layout will come into effect at the beginning of July.

The works in point 1 are part of the “Work on the Ring Road” project.
